Bilderberg Fears Losing Control In Chaos-Plagued World

Investigative journalist Daniel Estulin, whose information from inside Bilderberg has routinely proven accurate, states that the global elite's plan to completely destroy the economy and ultimately lower global population by two thirds has stoked fears even within Bilderberg itself that the fallout from such chaos could ultimately result in the globalists losing their control over the world.

In a telephone interview, Estulin re-iterated his original points about Bilderberg's 2009 agenda, which were released in a pre-meeting booklet to members. These include the notion that investors, whipped up into a false state of euphoria by the belief that the economy is recovering, are being suckered into ploughing their money back into the system as a set up for "massive losses and searing financial pain in the months ahead" as the stock market reverses its uptrend and plummets to new lows.

One of Bilderberg's main topics of conversation at this year's meeting was whether to oversee a long period of economic stagnation or to quickly sink the economy with a rapid depression.

Estulin called the "bank stress tests" recently conducted as being "little more than a shameless hoax based on the irrational assumption that the economy wont get as bad as it already is."

Bilderberg are also intent in pushing through the Lisbon Treaty despite it being rejected by countries in Europe who allowed their population to vote on the issue, and are prepared to manufacture demonization campaigns against anti-EU pressure groups, namely the Libertas organization fronted by Declan Ganley.

One of Bilderberg's primary concerns according to Estulin is the danger that their zeal to reshape the world by engineering chaos in order to implement their long term agenda could cause the situation to spiral out of control and eventually lead to a scenario where Bilderberg and the global elite in general are overwhelmed by events and end up losing their control over the planet.

Estulin said that the economic crisis is a vastly greater threat than a mere recession and that, as long as the present structure of the global economy remains the same, it will ultimately lead to a massive population reduction of two thirds within a generation or two.

Estulin said that such a massive crisis would bring many unknowns that "Scare and frighten some of the more savvy members of the Bilderberg inner circle who are wondering how far they have actually gone not only to destroy the world but perhaps even destroy themselves," adding that this subject was a topic of conversation at this year's meeting.

Estulin highlighted a phrase that he first ran across in Bilderberg documents many years ago but only came to understand more recently following the 2002 meeting in Chantilly Virginia, the term "demand destruction".

Estulin said that a source connected to the World Bank explained to him that, "You destroy demand by destroying the world economy on purpose - which is what we're witnessing right now," added Estulin, "destruction of the world economy on purpose.”

Bilderberg is not the power that be by DarkStar on 18.05.2009 [18:45]
as Alex Jones wants you to believe.
The real power is held by the Sanhedrin to whom the Bilderberg is 100% subservient.
No member of the Sanhedrin ever attended a Bilderberg meeting.
